The Lincoln Academy Partners with OrganicLife to Enhance School Dining Experience

BELOIT, Wis - The Lincoln Academy (TLA) is pleased to announce a new partnership with OrganicLife, a leading Midwest food management service, to provide school dining services beginning this upcoming school year.

The partnership reflects The Lincoln Academy's ongoing commitment to creating an exceptional educational experience by ensuring scholars have access to fresh, nutritious meals that support wellness and success both inside and outside the classroom.

"At OrganicLife, we believe every school deserves a dining program that is as unique as its scholars," said Jonas Falk, Founder and CEO of OrganicLife and CEO of Cenavera Nutrition. "The Lincoln Academy has built a strong reputation for creating an environment where scholars are encouraged to succeed and we are excited to support that mission by delivering fresh, high-quality meals that scholars look forward to enjoying every day."

Through the partnership, scholars will enjoy a chef-led dining program featuring fresh ingredients, scratch-prepared menu items, and a dining experience designed with scholar enjoyment in mind.

"At The Lincoln Academy, we believe every part of the scholar experience matters, including the meals our scholars enjoy each day," Chief Education Officer Dr. Kristi Cole stated. "Partnering with OrganicLife allows us to provide fresh, high-quality dining options while creating an environment where scholars feel excited about the food being served."

Throughout the school year, OrganicLife's culinary and operations teams will work alongside TLA leadership to introduce new menu offerings, chef-inspired recipes, and ongoing enhancements shaped by scholar and family feedback.

The Lincoln Academy remains committed to providing scholars with opportunities that extend beyond the classroom, and the partnership with OrganicLife represents another investment in creating a school environment where every scholar can thrive.
